Post Conviction & Habeas Corpus

Post Conviction- State Courts

Post-conviction relief may be available if there was an error in the trial or hearing that resulted in conviction. BROWNSTONE focuses on post-conviction work. We file post-conviction motions and writs of habeas corpus. In every state court in the nation our post conviction attorneys work to overturn your conviction or obtain a new trial for you. The post conviction relief lawyers at Brownstone focus on delivering results that matter and criminal post-conviction motions and hearings across the country.

Being the underdog does not mean you must forfeit innovation and strategy.

Post-conviction litigation is a unique legal area that may be available to people who have been convicted of a crime, after appeal rights have been exhausted. You may also qualify to withdraw your plea.

Habeas Corpus - Nationwide

Habeas corpus is a legal petition that may be the last chance for a defendant to seek relief or a new trial from a criminal conviction. These types of petitions are granted at the discretion of the court and require a strong factual and legal petition to show what the conviction was improper. Sometimes a petition may be used to challenge the holding of defendant in custody and to challenge the legality of a detention. BROWNSTONE handles special cases if:

- Errors are committed in the original trial;
- The original defense lawyer was ineffective;
- A constitutional right was violated.
